

Minnesota Music Hall of Fame Inductee

Sherwin Linton

Inducted in 2001

Shewin Linton. Sherwin Linton began performing while in high school. He had his own radio show and toured with his band, The Rocketeers. In 1966 Linton moved from Minneapolis to Nashville where he hit the big time with his song, “Cotton King”, which put him on top of the country charts. When people ask him what kind of songs he does, he replied that he likes to perform songs with good lyrics, may easily be hummed or sing along, and has a good dance beat.
